DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 13-15 and 30-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification and these claims describe a rotation prevention unit 330 having a bearing unit 331. From the specification and figure 2 it is not understood how means 200 are allowed to rotate when anti-rotation units 331 are mounted on means 200. Clarification is required.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 35 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

This claim is cumbersome and confusing. First boring step for boring first boring hole in ground. Perhaps it is just how the claim is written that is confusing. Perhaps language such as boring a second hole adjacent the first bored hole with a bit unit, the bit unit moveable along the guide groove of the casing, would be better.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-12, 14-31, 33 and 34 are allowed.
